DETAILED ACTION

In view of Applicant's remarks the Present Office Action serves to clarify a typing error in which claims 7 through 9 had been addressed throughout the prior Office Action as claims 1 through 3, correspondingly.

Drawings

- The substitute drawings were received on April 9, 2001.

Specification

- The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because the abstract should be limited to a single paragraph. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

➤ The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

➤ Claims 7-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kondou (US Patent No. 5,073,893).

Regarding claims 7, Kondou teaches an active layer having the principal plane of (111)-plane formed on a substrate (column 2, lines 33-35).

Regarding claim 8, Kondou teaches that the active layer has cutting angle of 54.7° (see Figure 2b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

➤ The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

➤ Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over by Kondou (US Patent No. 5,073,893) in view of Adachi et al. (US Patent No. 6,141,364).

Regarding claim 9, Kondou fails to teach an angle of deviation of $0^{\circ} 24'$. However, Adachi et al. teach that the deviation of principal plane from the strict (111) plane is within an angle 63° (see col. 25, lines 60-65). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the same time the invention was made to modify Kondou to include an angle of deviation of principal plane. The ordinary artisan would have been motivated to modify Kondou in the manner described above for at least the purpose of monitoring a light output of the semiconductor laser device. Regarding the claimed value of the angle of deviation, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed April 9, 2001 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant states that "if the Examiner maintains this rejection based on "principal plane" having another meaning, he is respectfully requested to supply evidence supporting the acceptability of such other meaning in this art." In view of this see for example column 3, lines 9-15 of Shakuda (US Patent No. 6,087, 681) who teaches that it is well known in the art that the term "principal plane" refers to a specific plane formed in a crystalline material (e.g. (111)). Furthermore, one skilled in the art would recognize that (111) is a shorthand notation called Miller indices, which identify the points at which a plane intercepts the x, y, and z coordinates in terms of the number of lattice parameters. Therefore, the prior art reads over the claimed limitation and the rejection is proper.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
